CD 1 42 ~ 57

No. 1 ★ : Hello?

T2-A1 ☆ : Hi, Barry. I missed the train. I'm going to be half an hour late.

★ : But, Donna, the movie starts in 10 minutes. I guess we won't be able to see it, then.

☆ : I'm really sorry. How about going to an Italian restaurant for dinner instead?

★ : OK.

Question: What will Barry and Donna probably do tonight?

No. 2 ★ : I asked Dad what he wanted for his birthday, but all he came up with was gloves or a wallet.

T2-A2 ☆ : Why don't we buy him some new golf clubs? The set he has now is getting old.

★ : Golf clubs are too expensive. But we could get him a video about golf.

☆ : That's a good idea. Let's go into town this afternoon.

Question: What are they going to buy their father for his birthday?

No. 3 ★ : How was work today, honey?

T2-A3 ☆ : Not so good. I didn't get the promotion I was hoping for. The boss promoted a bunch of people who have only been at the company for a short time, though.

★ : After all the work you've done? That's not fair. You deserve a promotion.

☆ : I thought so, too. I think it's time for me to start looking for a new job.

Question: Why does the woman say she will leave her job?

No. 4 ☆ : Did you hear the weather report, Dan? It's supposed to snow tonight.

T2-A4 ★ : Really? Is it going to snow a lot? If school is canceled, I'll have extra time to study for tomorrow's history exam. I'm not ready for it yet.

☆ : Well, they said it might snow a little, but I don't think school will be canceled.

★ : Yeah. The weather report is usually wrong, anyway.

Question: What is one thing the boy says?

No. 5 ☆ : Dave, um, I have something to tell you. Do you remember that book that you let me borrow?

T2-A15 ★ : Sure. The Young Ones, by Bryce Chambers. How do you like it?

☆ : Well, it seemed pretty good. The problem is I can't find it. I must have left it on the train yesterday. Should I buy you a new one?

★ : No, don't worry about it. I've read it twice already.

Question: What is one thing the girl says to the boy?

No. 6 ★ : Hi. I'm Dennis Freeman. I'm starting part-time work here today.

T2-A16 ☆ : Nice to meet you, Dennis. I'm Carol Jackson. You'll be helping the research department move some books this morning.

★ : OK. Where should I go?

☆ : Go to the fourth floor and ask for Mr. Beech. He'll show you what to do.

Question: What do we learn about Dennis Freeman?

No. 7 ☆ : Excuse me. This is the line to buy tickets for today's game, right?

★ : Yes, it is.

☆ : Well, I reserved tickets on the Internet. Do you know where I can pick them up?

★ : You have to stand in the line on the left. There's a sign that says that line is for online reservations.

Question: What does the man tell the woman to do?

No. 8 ★ : I'm sorry, ma'am, but you can't drive through here. We're repairing the road.

☆ : Oh. But I live on this street.

★ : We won't be done until this evening. I'm afraid you'll have to park somewhere else until then.

☆ : All right. I'll do that. Thank you.

Question: Why can't the woman drive down the road?

No. 9 ☆ : Excuse me, sir. Men are required to wear a tie in this restaurant.

★ : Oh. I wasn't aware of that. Is there a store nearby where I can buy one?

☆ : You may borrow a tie from our coatroom, but please be sure to return it after your meal.

★ : Thank you. I will.

Question: What is the man's problem?

No. 10 ☆ : Alice's Music, Head Office. How can I help you?

★ : Hi. I went to your downtown store this afternoon to get a CD, but I had trouble getting service from a clerk.

☆ : I apologize. Sometimes when the store's busy, the clerks can't help every customer immediately.

★ : But it wasn't busy. The clerk was talking on the phone, and I had to wait 10 minutes before I could buy my CD.

Question: What problem did the man have at Alice's Music?

No. 11 ☆ : Let's go running this morning, honey.

★ : Running? I haven't exercised in years. I don't even know if I still can run. I'll probably just hurt myself.

☆ : Let's just jog around the neighborhood a couple times. We'll go slowly. Come on, it will be good for you. You need the exercise.

★ : Well, OK. You're probably right. Dr. Begley did say that I've been gaining too much weight lately.

Question: What do we learn about the man?

No. 12 ☆ : You look stressed, Jeff. What's wrong?

★ : The boss says that he needs this report done by five o'clock today, but I don't know how I'm going to be able to finish it on time.

☆ : Well, why don't I give you a hand? I'm good at writing these reports, and I'm not so busy today, anyway.

★ : Thank you so much, Julia! I really appreciate it.

Question: How will the man probably finish his report on time?

No. 13 ★ : Becky, can you put some fresh water in the dog's water bowl?

☆ : OK, Dad. Have you already fed him? His food bowl is empty.

★ : No, I haven't. Do that, too, if you don't mind, but don't forget to wash the bowls first.

☆ : Both of them? Oh, all right, all right.

Question: What should Becky do first?

No. 14 ☆ : Merry Christmas, Jack! Here's a small gift for you. I hope you like it.

★ : Thanks, Beth. I feel terrible because I didn't buy you anything.

☆ : That's OK. You didn't have to.

★ : Well, let me take you out for lunch. It's the least I can do.

Question: Why does Jack feel bad?

No. 15 ★ : What are you going to study in college, Sandy?

☆ : I've always wanted to study art, but my parents think I should take something like economics or marketing.

★ : Why is that?

☆ : Well, they think that if I study a subject related to business, it'll be easier for me to find a job. But I'm going to stick to my original plan.

Question: What does Sandy want to study?

No. 23 Most people these days do not like waking up in the middle of the night. However, scientists have found that 500 years ago, people in Europe regularly enjoyed waking up at around midnight. Some scientists believe that this was because people would go to bed just after sunset because there was no electricity. Around midnight, people talked to their family or neighbors before going back to sleep again.

Question: What do we learn about people who lived in Europe 500 years ago?

T2-B9
No. 24 Steve and Nancy grow roses near their home in England. They used to sell their roses to a garden center nearby. But the garden center closed three years ago, so they started selling them on the Internet instead. Now, they sell roses to people all over Europe, and their business has become very successful.

Question: What did Steve and Nancy do three years ago?

No. 26 These days, many people like to use smartphones while riding on the train. Now, the city of Moscow, in Russia, provides people with electronic books, called e-books. People can download these e-books on their smartphones and read them for free while they are on the subway. There are over 100 e-books by classic Russian authors available.

The city hopes this will encourage more people to read.

Question: How is the city of Moscow trying to make people more interested in reading?

No. 27 Welcome to Sandsville Today on KTXN. Today's guests are Mrs. Regina Parker and Mr. Timothy Norris, who live in Sandsville. They will talk about the new plans for a shopping mall here. Mrs. Parker believes that it should be built because it will create many new jobs. However, Mr. Norris believes that many local businesses will close because they will lose customers to the new mall. Let's begin the discussion.

Question: What is the topic of today's program?

No. 28 Yesterday, Teresa asked her co-worker Ronald for help. She was preparing a presentation for a customer, and she needed to make a graph with information about how many people visited the company's website. Ronald found the data for her so she could make the graph. Teresa bought him lunch that day to say thanks.

Question: How did Ronald help Teresa?

No. 29 Recently, Mr. Yamada received a very expensive electricity bill. He wanted to find out why, so he checked to see what his family was doing. He noticed that his daughter Rina has been forgetting to switch off the air conditioner in her bedroom when she leaves for school. Mr. Yamada told her to always turn it off before she leaves.

Question: What has Rina been doing recently?

No. 30 Paula is trying to sell her house. Several people have come to look at it, but no one has wanted to buy it. The real-estate agent told Paula that her kitchen was a little dark. So, Paula has decided to paint it a brighter color. She hopes that having a nicer-looking kitchen will help her sell her home.

Question: What is Paula going to do?

CD 3 1 ~ 16

No. 1 ☆ : Do you have any plans for the summer vacation, Brad?

T1-A11 ☆ : Not really. I'll probably just spend the summer with my family. What about you, Cathy?

☆ : I'm going to Germany to visit a friend. She's studying there for a year.

★ : Really? That sounds like fun.

Question: What will Cathy do during the summer vacation?

No. 2 ☆ : Excuse me. I'm looking for a CD by a singer I heard on the radio recently. I don't know the singer's name.

T2-A11 ☆ : OK. Do you remember the song's title?

☆ : I think it's called "Lost Without You" or something like that. It's a pop song.

Question: What is the woman asking about?

No. 3 ☆ : May I help you?

★ : Yes. Your poster says you have Swahili lessons at this language school. How much are they?

☆ : In the case of Swahili, we don't get many students, so we only offer private lessons. They're $40 an hour.

★ : Well, that's a little expensive. I've been studying at home with a book and CD. I thought maybe I'd try taking a class, too, but I can't afford that.

Question: Why won't the man study Swahili at the language school?

No. 4 ★ : Honey, we've both been really busy with work lately. Do you think we should get someone to help with the housework?

☆ : Well, it would be a big help. Neither of us has much time for doing the cleaning.

★ : Exactly. The only problem is that I've heard housekeepers are expensive.

☆ : Well, it wouldn't hurt to call some housekeeping companies and find out their prices. We can always say no.

Question: What do the man and woman think they might need?

No. 5 ★ : Betsy, see that woman sitting on the park bench? It's Amy Carter from high school!

☆ : You're right. That is Amy Carter. She hasn't changed at all. Wasn't she dating Dale from math class? I wonder if they got married.

★ : Yeah, they did. And Amy opened her own jewelry store after that. I heard it's doing really well.

☆ : Let's go and say hello.

Question: What is one thing we learn about Amy Carter?

No. 6 ★ : How was Barbara's party yesterday? Did you meet anyone interesting?

☆ : Yeah. I'm glad I went. Her friends are so creative they're all actors and artists. It was fun getting to know those kinds of people.

★ : Did you meet anyone famous?

☆ : No. Everyone was young, and they had all just started their careers.

No. 13 ☆ : Excuse me, sir. My name's Joan Jansen. I'm staying in Room 309.

★ : How can I help you, Ms. Jansen? Is everything OK with your room?

☆ : Yes, the room is great. I want the front desk to call my room at 6 a.m. tomorrow. I have to get up early for a job interview.

★ : No problem at all, ma'am. We'll call you at six.

Question: Why is the woman at the front desk?

No. 14 ★ : Hello?

☆ : Hi, honey. It's Dorothy. Can you pick me up at the station after you finish work? It's raining pretty hard.

★ : OK, but I'm going to a meeting now, and it won't finish until six. Can't you walk home?

☆ : I forgot my umbrella.

★ : Well, if you don't mind waiting, I'll come when I'm finished here.

Question: What will the man do now?

No. 15 ☆ : Where do you want to go for lunch today, Harry?

★ : I was thinking of either Korean food or Thai food. What do you feel like having?

☆ : I had Thai food for dinner two days ago, so maybe Korean would be better.

★ : OK. Let's try that new place in Central Plaza. I hear the food is pretty good, and it's not too expensive.

Question: What will they probably do for lunch today?

No. 16 Mike works at a garden center. He used to work as a cashier, but last month his boss asked him to start doing customer service. He enjoys giving people advice about which plants to buy, but sometimes they ask him very difficult questions. Recently, he has learned a lot about plants by reading gardening books, and he is getting much better at answering the customers' questions.

Question: What is one thing Mike has been doing recently?

No. 17 Class, please remember that the speech contest will be this Thursday. I know that some of you will feel nervous before you give your speeches. If you do, I recommend that you try this technique. Close your eyes and imagine the listeners smiling, laughing, or looking interested as they enjoy your speech. It will help you relax and have confidence.

Question: What does the teacher recommend that the students do?

No. 18 Last year, Peter got a new boss. Before she arrived, Peter and his co-workers were worried about what kind of person she would be, but now everyone respects her a lot. She often asks the staff members for their opinions, and she listens to their ideas carefully. This makes them feel that they are important, and everyone is working harder than before.

Question: Why do Peter and his co-workers respect their new boss?

No. 19 Terry is in medical school. He studies very hard, so he does not have time for a part-time job. Earlier this semester,
